ECHOPHONE.THE LATEST TALKING MACHINE

When Edison invented the phonograph, which reproduces the human voice, it was considered the greatest invention of the age—and so it was.

Just think a moment!—Human voices, bands of music, songs of all kinds, speeches and lectures by great statesmen reproduced by these machines.

Why are not phonographs in every household? They cost too much—$40 to $200.

We have solved the problem. An Echophone will be shipped you (express charges to be paid by the purchaser), and "Leslie's Weekly" every week for one year, for the remarkably low price of $8.00.

The Echophone is run by clock work. Any child can operate it. One record goes with each machine; extra records, 50 cents each. The phonograph and graphophone cylinders can be used in this machine. If the talking machine is not perfectly satisfactory, we will refund you your money.

"Leslie's Weekly" is considered the best and most popular illustrated weekly in America. Its subscription price is $4.00 per year, and the echophone $10.00. Now you wonder how we can sell both for $8.00. We will tell you. We want 250,000 subscribers to "Leslie's Weekly." We believe that we will get them this way. Those who advertise with us when we publish that number of papers will pay for our loss now. Therefore, the number of machines will be limited—"First come, first served."

BOTH EXECUTED.

Pearl Bryan's Murderers Pay the Penalty on the Scaffold.

Jackson Made an Unsuccessful Attempt to Save Walling—Neither Made Statements on the Scaffold—Scott Jackson's Body Burned to Ashes.

NEWPORT, Ky., March 23.—Jackson and Walling were at 7:35 Saturday morning ordered to prepare themselves for the last. Rev. Lee prayed with them and they sang three hymns: "The Sweet By and By," Walling's favorite; "God Be With You Till We Meet Again," and "The Half Was Never Told."

Then the preacher offered another prayer.

Scott Jackson, as he Appeared During His Trial.

Turnkey Fred Maurer, of the Covington jail, sent a message to Walling from Miss Emma Roberts. It was: "Die game."

He said that he would. Walling then made a touching appeal that he be permitted to see Mayor Rhinock. Although it was against the rules, the request was granted. Mayor Rhinock was sent for, and they had a long talk. Rev. Mr. Lee offered then another prayer.

Just before the death procession was to move Walling made another frantic appeal for his life.

He asked Mayor Rhinock if he would sign a dispatch to the governor, and for Mayor Biltz to do the same.

"Give me a reprieve of 30 days," he exclaimed, pitifully. The mayor explained that the sheriff had a right to postpone the execution.

"If you have anything to say tell him," was the advice.

Walling answered: "Jackson can save my life if he will, but he won't. I have tried in every way to get him to do it, but he will not. He ought to save me."

"Now, Lon," said Mayor Rhinock, "I want you to tell me where the head is."

"Mayor Rhinock, before God, whom I shall now meet, I do not know."

At 11:20 a. m. a dispatch was received from Frankfort saying that the governor had again refused to reprieve Walling. This is his final decision.

Scott Jackson made a statement at 9 o'clock, clearing Walling. A dispatch was sent to the governor at Frankfort. There was the greatest excitement here.

Just before the men got ready to go to the scaffold Sheriff Plummer asked them if they had anything to say. Jackson then made the statement clearing Walling.

Just as Sheriff Plummer started for the jail, Col. Washington, Walling's lawyer, entered the court-yard. He proceeded to Walling's cell and talked to him about the alleged confessions made by him and Jackson Thursday.

Walling acknowledged that both confessions were all a fake, but said that Jackson could yet save him if he would. There was a long delay, and the crowd was becoming impatient, when the startling rumor was spread that Jackson had confessed, exonerating Walling. It developed that this was true. Sheriff Plummer had called the men to get ready to march to the scaffold, when Jackson began to cry. He called Rev. Lee and Walling to face him and then said, addressing Sheriff Plummer:

"I want to say before you all that Lon Walling is not guilty of murder."

There was a hush and then Rev. Lee said: "What do you mean, Scott?"

"I mean just what I say, that Lon Walling is not guilty of murder."

Walling was pronounced dead at 11:55 o'clock. A doctor stood with his hand over the struggling man's heart until the last pulsation had died away.

Jackson was pronounced dead at 12:01 o'clock. Three moments later the bodies were removed from the scaffold.

Rev. Lee, after the noose had been adjusted, walked down three or four steps.

After the drop had been sprung he left the steps and began weeping.

After Walling's body had been cut down it was taken charge of by Undertaker Cunningham, of Bellevue. It was placed in a temporary coffin and taken out of the Southgate street entrance of the jail and placed in Cunningham's wagon, which was in waiting. It was then driven to Bellevue, where it will be embalmed.

There is hardly any doubt but that Walling strangled to death. It is believed that Jackson's neck was broken.

Dr. Tarvis states that both men lived about 12 minutes and that both died of strangulation.

Walling's last words as he left the jail were as he pointed to Jackson: "That man can save me if he will. I die an innocent man. I was not there when she was killed."

Walling's body was brought to the undertaker at 12:45 p. m. It was sent to Hamilton at 2:15 o'clock Saturday night.

A few minutes later Walling dropped a note from the window to a reporter, reading, "Jackson has freed me."

After coming from the consultation with the prisoners Judge Helm said that he told Jackson that he must hang, and if he allowed Walling to hang with him he would have to answer to his Maker for a double crime. He also impressed Jackson with the fact that if he went before his Maker with a lie on his lips he would also be doing a double wrong. He then gave Jackson five minutes in which to make up his mind, leaving him unattended by the death watch. At the expiration of the time Jackson said that he could not say that Walling was innocent. This settled the fate of both prisoners, and the time for the execution was fixed at 11:30 o'clock.

It was also learned that Gov. Bradley talked over long distance telephone with Plummer, who told him Jackson declined to make any further statement than that Walling was not guilty of murder, and declined to go into details. "Then hang them both," was the word which the governor gave as he dropped the telephone.

The procession of death was formed at 11:30 o'clock. Sheriff Plummer, Rev. Mr. Lee, Deputy Moore and Death Watch Truesdell walked with Jackson. Deputy Hindman and Deputy Miller were with Walling.

Sheriff Plummer ascended the scaffold with the prisoners and said "Scott Jackson and Alonzo Walling, I am here for the purpose of carrying out the mandate of the governor of this state, as expressed in the documents which were read to you last Tuesday. Have you, Scott Jackson, anything to say?"

Jackson replied: "Only this. I am not guilty of the crime for which I am now asked to pay the penalty of my life." He answered calmly, deliberately and without a quaver or tremor.

Plummer then asked: "Have you, Alonzo Walling?"

"Only that you are about to take the life of an innocent man. Before God I am not guilty of the crime with which I am charged."

A lump arose in Walling's throat as he replied.

Rev. Mr. Lee sang a hymn and read from the Word of God, after which he offered the following prayer:

"Our Father, our Saviour and our God, as the sun is shining brightly over our heads, oh, may the Son of Righteousness shine into the souls of Scott Jackson and Alonzo Walling and save them. God help them to trust in thee and thee alone, for life and salvation. Oh, Lord, thou who didst say to the one who died on the cross with thee, 'To-day thou be with me in paradise.' Oh, admit these boys into thy love, into thy mercy, we ask and rely upon the blood of Jesus Christ to do this. Amen."

"Good by, Scott; good by, Alonzo," the preacher said with a broken voice and with tears in his eyes. "I ask you now, in the name of God, right now to engage in secret prayer for the saving of your souls in a special plea to God."

It was noticed during the singing and the reading of the Bible that while both men were thoroughly composed Jackson's eyes were red. He seemed to be retaining the tears. Walling was perfectly cool, and looked about the crowd with stolid indifference.

The preparation for the work of death was hurried. The ropes were placed about the men's necks at 11:37 o'clock. Their feet and hands were next strapped. Their hands were fastened behind their backs.

Pearl Bryan, the Murdered Girl.

The black caps were adjusted at 11:39 o'clock. The drops fell at 11:40 o'clock. The execution was one of the most successful on record, although neither of the men's necks were broken.

When Sheriff Plummer sprang the traps, both men struggled considerably. Walling showed the greatest signs of suffering. The crowds pressed to the scaffold, and the police were busy keeping spectators back at a sufficient distance to prevent their interfering with the executioners.

day night, in the coffin sent by Clint Walling. The body was embalmed Saturday afternoon.

CINCINNATI, March 23.—Scott Jackson's body was incinerated Saturday night at the Clifton crematory. All that remains of the misguided young man—a handful of white bone ashes, purified by fire—Sunday was given into the keeping of the heart-broken, but still loving mother.

In the early arrangement of the details concerning the judicial execution of the two prisoners, the plan of incineration was proposed to the mother of Scott Jackson. She received the suggestion favorably, and after mature deliberation decided to act upon it.

The fact that various concerns, seeking to gratify the morbid curiosity of the public mind, had offered Mrs. Jackson enormous sums of money for the dead body of her only son and the fear of phobias and grave robbery, influenced the mother in her decision to resort to cremation as not only a sensible but the only safe means for the disposal of her erring son's dead body.

TO SECEDE.

The Cleveland Wheel Club Will Leave the League of American Wheelmen.

CLEVELAND, O., March 22.—It is practically settled that the Cleveland wheel club will at the next annual meeting secede from the League of American Wheelmen. This action will be taken as the result of agitation that has been going on for two years because of a throw down the club received at a state meet.

At the last meeting the members favorable to secession were defeated, but they claim that at the next meeting they will carry the day by a large majority. It will, however, be decided that those members of the club who desire to do so, need not individually give up their membership in the national organization, but the club, as a club, will cease to be connected with the L. A. W. President Collier said Sunday night that the best interests of the club calls for the change.

TO FIGHT RINGS

Is the Purpose of the "Knights of the Golden Rule."

LEXINGTON, Ky., March 22.—According to an anonymous communication the Knights of the Golden Rule have "quietly organized in each precinct of the city, and will reach every hill and valley of the country before November. Their purpose is to break up rings and put men in office who will obey the maxim of their title, the golden rule, regardless of politics. They recognize no party lines."

Investigation shows that there are quite a number of these "Knights," for the most part reliable, substantial citizens, but the identity of the originators and financial backers has not been disclosed.

Infant Runaway.

KOKOMO, Ind., March 22.—Earl Loop, eight-year-old son of Henry and Mrs. Loop, whose disappearance from home in 1889 is well remembered and who was supposed to be dead, surprised everybody by returning home safe and sound. He has been all over the west, in Mexico and South America. He claims to be the champion infant runaway boy of America. He left home when eight years old and is now 16. A few weeks ago he had a dream in which he saw his father lying a corpse and it haunted him so that he started home. On arriving here he found the dream true. His father died four months ago, about the time Earl says he had the dream. The boy will remain at home and care for his widowed mother the remainder of her life.

Claims John Colburn as His Accomplice.

COLUMBUS, O., March 22.—J. W. Colbert and John Splan, chief of police and detective respectively, of Indianapolis, brought Charles Spears, a murderer, here Sunday to enable him if possible to identify his accomplice in the crime whom he said he knew when he was a convict here. His name and residence Spears had forgotten. With the assistance of convict acquaintances Spears decided that his accomplice was John Colburn, who served a term for burglary, from Cincinnati, and was released several years ago. It is not known where Colburn is now.

A Blizzard in Western Nebraska.

OMAHA, Neb., March 22.—Reports received here Sunday night from Western Nebraska indicate a very severe snow storm prevalent. The blizzard extends from Schuyler, 60 miles west of here, to North Platte, in the further end of the state. A dispatch from Benkelman Sunday night says ten inches of snow has fallen, and the wind is blowing it into great drifts. The loss of stock will be very large. Nearly a foot of snow has fallen at Central City.

Destructive Fire at Ottumwa, Ia.

OTTUMWA, Ia., March 22.—A fire which started at 5:30 Sunday afternoon in Cullen's dry goods store had destroyed a quarter of a million dollars' worth of property at 9 o'clock and was still having its own way. A gale is blowing and there seems to be little hope of saving any of the big brick business block in which Cullen's store is located.

Heirs to an English Fortune.

RICHMOND, Ind., March 22.—Rev. W. G. Whitaker, of Nebraska, has been in the vicinity for the past two months looking after the claims of the Whitaker family, who are said to be heirs to an immense English fortune. At New Paris, O., just east of this city, there are a number of the heirs. Rev. Mr. Whitaker will leave next month for England to press the immense claim.

Assaulted an Officer.

SALEM, O., March 22.—Early Saturday morning Joe Marshall assaulted Police Officer Irey. Marshall met the officer on his beat and struck him on the head with some concealed weapon, cutting an ugly gash and knocking him down. He then kicked him in the side, caving in several ribs. Marshall was arrested and jailed.

The number of policemen on duty at the white house has been reduced from 24 to 4.
